EMINENT AUTHORITY ON EGYPTIAN TOMBS

The great interest manifested in Lord Carnarvon's excavations in Egypt and in his epoch-making discovery of Tut-ankh-amen's tomb has resulted in numerous applications being made to the Montreal Archaeological Society for a lecture in the field of Egyptian archaeology. The Society has taken the matter up and has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Professor C. T. Currelly, Director of the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto. Professor Currelly comes to Montreal on Friday and will lecture in the Physics Building that evening at 8:30. His subject is "The Development and Making of Egyptian Tombs". The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon slides. Professor Currelly has made many visits to Egypt and is thoroughly familiar with all phases of Egyptology. The collections which he has succeeded in accumulating at the museum in Toronto have already made that institution one of the most notable on the continent. All members of the University are cordially invited to attend.

SMITH COLLEGE

"I thought all the people in New York must be millionaires," exclaimed Frau Vetter of Vienna, who recently lectured here. "The American middle class man spends his money on a comfortable home, on fine dress and on social entertainment," said Frau Vetter, "while the Viennese spends his money on beautiful examples of art, on books and on concerts. Where the American girl of eighteen has a fur coat, the Viennese girl of the same age has a large library."

UNIVERSITY OFFICES WERE CLOSELY CONTESTED WHEN LARGE VOTE WAS POLLED

Amaron Elected President of Council—Packham Wins Presidency of Union—Little Is New Vice-President—Leach and Simpson Tied for Secretaryship.

The Union lobby was kept filled all day yesterday by the crowds of students who came to cast their votes in the college elections.

That election day, and college affairs in general are becoming of greater interest to the students was shown by the fact that a vote of one thousand, four hundred and seventy-seven was polled, a total of almost five hundred votes more than were cast in the elections last year.

Another indication of increased interest in student affairs was the fact that, while last year three candidates were elected by acclamation, all the positions were contested this year. In one case, that of the Secretaryship of the Union, a draw was announced. It has not yet been decided what procedure will be followed to decide this, but a decision will be reached and announced in the near future.

The following is a list of the successful candidates, together with a synopsis of their college activities:

E. C. AMARON—President Students' Council.
Twice president of Arts '23.
Twice president of Old Scouts Club.

President of S.C.A., Cercle Français, and Arts Undergrad.

Track team, Class Hockey and Indoor Baseball, Soccer and Gymnastics.
Held offices in Mock Parliament, McGill Student Orchestra, and took part in Dramatic Club plays.

J. M. PACKHAM—President of Union.

President of Commerce '24, first year.
Executive of Commercial Society, 1921-1922.
Editor in Chief of 1924 Annual.

L. LITTLE—Vice-President of Union.

GOVERNING BOARD MEN APPOINTED

Names of Henry and McGregor Submitted

ACCLAMATION

Short Resume of Fight for New System

It was announced last night that as only two men had been nominated for the Athletic Governing Board they will hold office by acclamation. These men are R. B. Henry and D. U. McGregor; they have both had considerable experience in the management of various teams in university athletics and should succeed in their new capacity. R. B. Henry was president of the Indoor Baseball Club last year and manager of the track team this season, while McGregor, after considerable success in football this year, will be captain of the football team next season.

In this connection a word as to how the Athletic Governing Board idea originated might be in place. It had long been felt that the control of athletics should not be so hampered by the jurisdiction of the higher governing bodies; for this reason a board with more equal representation from the faculty, the graduates and the students was contemplated. This plan, besides increasing the students' control, would tend to get the graduates more in sympathy with the athletics at the college and also increase the interest taken by professors in the sports.

Several meetings of the students were held, and the whole question was very freely discussed from every possible angle. After much deliberation a resolution was drawn up to get the feelings of the undergraduates; this was considerably altered before final acceptance and is published in full herewith:

Resolved: That the Students' Society of McGill University recommend to the Standing Committee on Physical Education of McGill University the formation of an "Athletic Governing Board" to control and administer all athletic monies of McGill University. Also that that portion of the universal fee of each student, namely, $3.00, formerly expended by the Students' Council for athletic purposes, be in future transferred to the Athletic Governing Board.

Also: That the composition of the said Athletic Governing Board be as follows:

The Principal ex-officio.
Three members of the Faculty, to be appointed by the Students' Council on recommendation of the Principal.

Three graduates, to be appointed by the Students' Council on recommendation of the Principal.

ELECTRICAL CLUB TO HOLD BANQUET

Discussed Manner of Spending Club's Surplus

A meeting of the McGill Electrical Club was held yesterday in the Engineering Building. The chief subject under discussion at this meeting was the manner in which the club is to make use of its cash balance on hand, an amount of $174.49. It was finally decided, after many different suggestions had been made, to hold a banquet before the Easter holidays. The banquet will take place in one of the city hotels, and the executive intends to obtain the very best speaker for the evening that it is possible to get.

In order that next year's executive will not have to begin operations without any cash, it was decided to have a minimum of $25 in the treasury.

The meeting was characterized by the aggressiveness of the members, and the intense interest taken by them in the club's affairs. They were unanimously in favour of increased activity next session, in regard to the holding of dinners, making trips to manufacturing plants, and having leaders in the electrical industry to give talks.

DAILY STAFF WILL ENJOY REAL DINNER

This Evening at 7 in Union Cafeteria

PROMOTIONS

All "Daily" Men Invited to Annual Banquet

This evening at 7 o'clock, the Daily editors and reporters will gather in the Union Cafeteria, for their Annual Banquet given by the Students' Council, to which every man on the paper is invited. At this function the pins are awarded and the longed-for promotions are announced for the coming year.

This is one of the semi-annual meetings of the staff which only the men attend. During the year two special gatherings were held to which the R. V. C. members were invited and at which special speakers were heard.

The banquet of last year is still lingering in the minds of those who were fortunate in attending it, but the one this evening is expected to eclipse it in every detail. Last year there were only a limited number of promotions to be made, while the advancements for next sessions are numerous owing to the graduation of the majority of the present News Board. This in itself is a great inducement for those cub reporters who have been working faithfully throughout the year to come to the festive board and, perhaps, hear news sweeter than they ever hunted for. Beside the promotions will be the announcements of the award of the bronze pins to the more diligent news writers.

The dinner itself will represent the pinnacle of epicurean art and the menu will be distinctive souvenirs of a memorable occasion. The speeches promise to be of the entertaining variety and will be different from the ordinary run of after-dinner toasts.

The staff of the "Daily" has been larger this session than for many years, and the number which will grace the tables this evening is expected to be in the neighbourhood of fifty.

The banquet offers to the reporters a unique opportunity of not only renewing acquaintance met around the newspaper-heaped tables of the editorial office, but also of hearing "Scotty" Bedding of the composing room, who is responsible for their scribbled and typed sheets being transformed into neat news articles. "Scotty" will reply to the toast to the Composing Room, which Leon Levinson is to propose.

The toast list, which has been prepared is as follows:

The King.
The Daily.
W. F. Shepherd. G. H. Craik
The Contributors.
H. D. MacMillan. Felix Walter
The Composing Room.
Leon Levinson. "Scotty" Bedding
The Graduating Staff.

KING COOK TO BE CROWNED TONIGHT

Hawaiian Beauties Add to Attraction of Event

The finishing touches were put to the preparations for the 72nd Annual Coronation of King Cook last evening, when a full rehearsal was carried out in the Medical Building. The Hawaiian beauties had arrived in time for the practice and were met at the station by Tobin himself. The management of R.V.C. had very kindly offered the strangers the hospitality of that far-famed institution, but the committee, fearing that the morals of the present inmates might be seriously affected by their presence, courteously declined the offer, and the damsels were taken to Strathcona Hall, in accordance with the original arrangements.

Last evening, when interviewed, one sweet young thing declared that she was more than pleased with the homelike surroundings and the peaceful atmosphere of the Hall. Needless to say, the presence of the young ladies greatly adds to the peppiness of this outstanding event.

For those who have not yet obtained tickets, there are still a few to be had from Crawford at the Medical Building. A limited number will also be sold at the door.

Programmes are ready and will be sold at the door for twenty cents each. They show considerable originality, and many new features have been added to make them particularly desirable. On the whole, a very unusual, exhilarating and fascinating show will be presented this evening at eight o'clock in the Assembly Hall of the Medical Building.

An organization of male students is about to be formed here of the males who pledge themselves not to marry college women. It will be known as the "Society for the Welfare of Male Students."

Making the lame walk! That is the job of George Curvey of the University Hospital. George is the expert mechanic who makes orthopedic braces, supporting corsets, wooden legs, extensions, splints, etc.

MORMONISM TO BE SUBJECT OF PAPER

Miss Fry to Read Paper to Comparative Religionists

A paper on "Mormonism" will be read by Miss Mary Fry this afternoon at 5 o'clock, at a meeting of the Comparative Religious Group, which will take place in Room B, Strathcona Hall. The paper will include also a description of the religion of the Doukhobours, and will be followed by a general discussion. All students interested are cordially invited to attend.

The group on Comparative Religions has been meeting regularly and successfully during the past few weeks. Discussions have been held on Hinduism, Confucianism, Mohammedanism, Judaism, Catholicism and Protestantism, and in every case a great deal of interest was shown by all present.

This meeting and the next will be spent in a survey of some of the religions which lie on the "outskirts" of the study of Comparative Religion, and which are perhaps not so well known as the ones which have been treated already.

HISTORICAL CLUB OF MONTREAL FORMED

At a meeting of twenty-five instructors of history from Montreal, and vicinity, held yesterday afternoon in the Arts Building, the Historical Club of Montreal was formed. Professor Basil Williams, M.A., Kingsford Professor of History, who was the originator of the club, was elected President. Miss Brittain, of the Montreal High School, Secretary-Treasurer, and the following advisory committee, Dr. C. E. Fryer, Professor History; Mr. John Anderson, M.A., of Westmount High School; and Mrs. J. G. Stewart B.A., of Montreal West.

It is the aim of the club's executive to promote greater interest in historical subjects, the intention being to hold at least four general meetings each year. The first function of the Historical Club of Montreal will take place during the month of April in the form of a dinner.

STUDENT COURTESY

We hear much of the decline of courtesy. However true this may be with reference to the conduct of the average citizen we feel that the university is one place where such a contention finds very shaky footing at best. The relations of different student bodies with one another, be it in the realm of sport or in other undergraduate endeavour, as well as the relations of men in the same college afford ample proof that courtesy is a very important if not essential element in these connections, and that rather than being on the decrease, it is decidedly on the increase with each successive year. Collegiate athletics are conceded to present the finest in sportsmanship; and sportsmanship after all is but expression of respect for the next man as evidenced by courtesies slight in themselves, evincing that regard.

Mutual exchange of compliments may seem a trivial matter; expressions of sympathy to the loser, or of congratulation to the winner, may appear to be mere idle words—and yet they are the small things that count, the trifles that constitute the fabric of cordial relationship. The letters to be found in the Correspondence Column demonstrate that the spirit of courtesy is most emphatically prevalent at McGill, today as in the past.

EDITORIAL NOTE

The heavy vote recorded yesterday is McGill's appreciation of the men who were running for office, all of whom had demonstrated their ability by past work in student activities. The candidates selected from the capable men contesting the positions of President of the Students' Society, President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Union, were selected on their merits which, while implying no lack of like qualities in their opponents, in the eyes of the undergraduates better fitted them for the offices for which they stood. McGill and those chosen for the above offices, as well as those who have been placed upon the Athletic Governing Board by acclamation, deserve to be congratulated upon the results of the elections.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

The selected graduate will work under Dr. Whitby, a member of the staff of the Department of Chemistry, who is a specialist in the rubber industry. It is expected that the fellowship will be awarded each year.

NEW DANCE ETIQUETTE FOR FRIDAY

Rendez-vous Will Facilitate Meeting Partners

STRICT RULES

Tickets to Be Collected at Main Door of Union

Tickets for the Alma Mater Dance will be collected at the main door to the Union to-morrow evening, according to an announcement made by the committee in charge of the affair, last night, and any person without the necessary cards will not be allowed to enter the building. The change from the usual procedure was made necessary by the fact that some students had mentioned that they intended to come to the dance even though they had been unable to secure tickets for the affair, and they intended to tender the money in lieu of a ticket. Orders have been issued to the porters to absolutely refuse admission to anyone without a ticket, and, should tickets be forgotten, the persons who forget them will have to return and secure them before they are allowed to enter.

At some of the former dances the practice of offering money in place of a ticket has been tolerated, but it will be frowned on to-morrow evening, no matter who the unfortunate person is who attempts the ruse. The plain facts of the matter are that the two floors will be taxed to capacity with the people who are already certain to come, and there will be no accommodation for even a few extra couples.

The music for the opening dance will commence sharply at 9.15 o'clock in the evening. This hour has been fixed as one which will allow those attending the function ample time to reach the Union and complete the formality of filling their programmes before the dance begins. The hour for the first dance is definite, however, and those who wish to make certain of missing none of the programme will have to be ready before that time.

In order that the usual confusion which occurs at the end of every dance when dancers are in search of their next partners may not be too evident at the coming affair, a system of rendezvous has been arranged for. According to this plan the sitting out spaces will be marked with banners giving them distinctive names. Arrangements can be made to meet at any given part of the building by giving the name by which that part is designated for the evening. The banners will be in prominent places so that they may be easily distinguishable to everyone.

The gala affair promises to be the most brilliant and lively social gathering that has been held at McGill for many years. It will undoubtedly be the largest gathering of students that has been seen (Continued on Page 4.)

TITLES FOR ALL PLAYS ANNOUNCED

Programme Will Be Published by Mt. Royal Hotel

MANY PRACTICES

Another General Rehearsal on Saturday

One week from tonight the most popular event in this year's schedule of undergraduate activities will take place in the St. Denis Theatre, when men and women from every faculty and department will gather to witness what promises to be a first class vaudeville entertainment. The principal of the university will also be present at this function, besides numerous graduates and members of the professoriate, and a very pleasant evening is looked forward to by all.

The programme for the show will be published by the Mount Royal Hotel at their own expense, and they will of course have sole advertising rights. The hotel, as is well known, is one of the most perfect in the British Empire, and it is very encouraging to notice that the management consider such a proposition so enthusiastically. Many of the McGill dinners and dances have already been held there with success, and this programme arrangement will form another common bond between the university interests and those of the hotel. The list of titles, as shown by the programme, is most imposing, and should raise the expectation of everyone to the highest pitch. Following are the names of the various acts, as announced by the different faculties. The order of performance has not, as yet, been arranged with any degree of certainty and will not necessarily follow the list given herewith:

"A Frolic in Black and White"..... M.S.P.E.
"Husband Trapping in 30"..... R.V.C.
"Freshmen Beware"..... Arts
"The Valley of the Kings"..... Medicine
"Some Class to Us"..... Law
"What Is a Home Without a Chesterfield"..... Commerce
"Behind the Beyond" (by Stephen Leacock)..... The Faculty
"Jazz Revue".....

Combined McGill Orchestras
"Athletic Review".....
Winners of Athletic Trophies
"Spirit, Spark and Spirits".....

Applied Science

"An Extract (not lemon)"..... Dentistry
With such a large programme, it is easy to understand that there will be a considerable number of performers. A very hasty estimate would show the R.V.C. cast with forty entertainers, M.S.P.E. with twenty-five, Arts with twenty, Commerce also with twenty, Law with about ten, Medicine with fifteen, and a small number in the Faculty playlet. Altogether, with the orchestra which will take part, nearly one hundred and fifty students will join in this gala performance; not for a long time have such a number united their efforts in any affair of this nature, and it is sincerely to be hoped that this sort of an activity will receive the whole-hearted support of the undergraduate body.

There is one item on the programme which deserves special mention; the Athletic Review will consist of the appearance of the presidents of those clubs which have been successful in winning the trophies in their respective competitions. Some of the clubs which will come into this review are the Track Club, the Water Polo Club, the Ski and Snowshoe Club, the Tennis Club, the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club and the Basketball Club. McGill has good reason to be proud of the athletic prowess of her sons, and the array which will be seen when these representatives of her teams line up should be very imposing.

The many companies have been holding frequent rehearsals, with the result that decided advance is being made in the method of presentation. The work of Mr. Tremayne, the general director, has had much to do with this improvement and before long the playlets will approach perfection, and all the skits will be run off in quick time so that the companies will get used to acting their pieces in fifteen minutes.

The actors will line up as follows:
Science 2:00 p.m.
Law 2:15 p.m.
Dentistry 2:30 p.m.
Medicine 2:45 p.m.
R.V.C. 3:00 p.m.
M.S.P.E. 3:15 p.m.
Commerce 3:30 p.m.
Arts 3:45 p.m.
Faculty 4:00 p.m.

The music will undoubtedly be beyond reproach as the orchestra will be under the leadership of Mr. Harold Key. The tickets are not being called for at a very fast rate, but in order to be sure of a seat, immediate application should be made to C. D. Fraser at the Students' Council office.

WICKSTEED CONTEST WON BY CONSIGLIO

Team Picked to Represent McGill in Events

BROKE RECORD

Amaron Wins Graduate Gold Medal

The final events of the Wicksteed Competition were held yesterday afternoon in the High School gymnasium. The contest was won by Consiglio, who came first with 383.19 points, while Delahay was a close second with 383.11 to his credit. Consiglio thus wins the bronze medal which is offered to men of the sophomore and junior years. Amaron came first among the graduation year entries, and won the gold medal which is attainable by men of this year.

The Doctor Harvey Cup, which is offered to men of the freshman year, was won by S. H. McKeyes.

Consiglio broke a former record in the standing hop, step and jump, by covering a distance of 25 ft. 11 1/2 in. This was exactly one foot farther than his own previous record.

In the mat work, P. Rolleston did some very clever stunts, winning the event with a total of 41 points out of a possible 50.

E. C. AMARON

Newly Elected President of Students' Society

Consiglio won the fence vault, and hop, step and jump, though he was unable to come up to his own record in the former event. Rolleston, Delahay, Amaron and Bourne all showed very good form in the fence vault.

Delahay won the high jump, horse and parallel bar events, while Amaron won the potato race.

At the conclusion of the contest, a team to represent the University in Intercollegiate events was chosen. It is composed of the following men: Delahay, Rolleston, Consiglio, McLetchie, McKeyes and Bourne as spare.

There were only four events held last night, namely: The mat exercise, fence vault, hop, step and jump, and potato race. The other events in the competition were held last Monday, and the total number of points obtained in all the events were of course taken into consideration yesterday in deciding a winner, and in choosing the Intercollegiate team.

BASKETBALL CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the McGill Basketball Club is taking place this afternoon at a quarter past five in the Union. This meeting will mark the close of one of the most successful years that the basketball club has had in recent years.

The business of this meeting is of great importance to men who intend to take an interest in basketball next season. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and plans for the future laid. The receipt of invitations to play across the border next year merely emphasizes the fact that all plans for next year must be made right now.

It is particularly requested that all members of the senior team attend this meeting. They are requested to bring their pants, sweaters and boots, which are to be turned in to the manager.

The retiring officers are Eddie Gram and Art Manson, as president and vice-president respectively.

IMPORTANT MEETING HELD BY R.V.C. '23

A class meeting of R.V.C. '23 was held yesterday at one o'clock, in the Common Room. Miss Joan Foster, of the Convocation Committee, announced that the Committee expected every member of the graduating class to contribute fifty cents towards the cost of the celebrations connected with Convocation. This amount is to be paid to Miss Alice Roy, the class treasurer. Will every girl please hand in her fifty cents immediately, as it is important that this money be collected as soon as possible.

HISTORICAL CLUB HEARS FINE PAPERS

Two Interesting Subjects Are Topic of Evening

ALBANIA & SLOVAKIA

Countries About Which Little Is Known

The regular meeting of the Historical Club was held yesterday evening at Strathcona Hall and two very interesting papers were read. These dealt with subjects which were both absorbing and instructive to those who were fortunate enough to be present, each outlining the history of a country about which the average person knows very little.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, Lloyd read his paper on "Albania".

In opening his address the speaker remarked that this country was the least known in Europe and that so far, little or no scientific knowledge of the land had been obtained. The geographical features have a great deal to do with this as it is practically hemmed in by mountains. This, coupled with the fierce war-like nature of the inhabitants, has done much to prevent the outside world from learning of such a small country in the heart of the civilized world, yet separated by the barriers of race and of nature.

It is situated on the eastern side of the Adriatic Sea and abounds in mineral resources as yet untouched. The people are peasants and tobacco is grown to a large extent. In Albania there are no railroads and thus this unknown country is practically cut off from communication with the outside world and the inhabitants live their stormy existence in their own section unaware of the march of civilization.

They are the most ancient people in Europe and are thought to be of Aryan descent. Their traditions have been kept and they have preserved their own language to the present day.

Although ignorant and superstitious, those who have fought with the Turkish army have shown themselves to be the bravest in that unit. It is a land of feuds, vendettas, racial warfare and fierce hatred, but when the people do extend their hospitality their friendship is lasting.

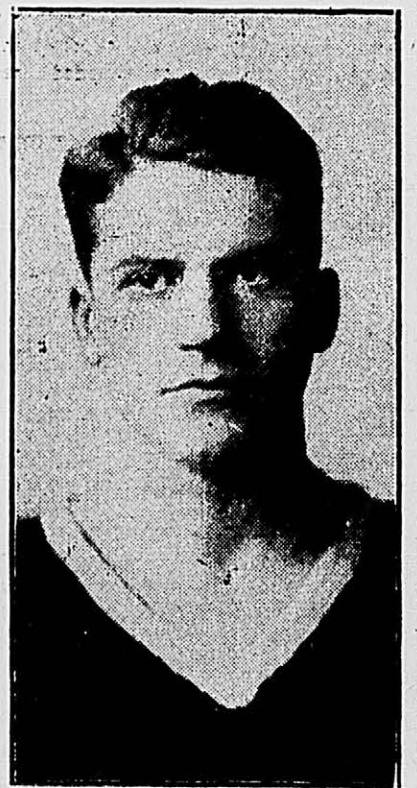

For centuries they have fought against the Turk and have at last broken away from his influence.

In Albania there is practically no education, which is not to be wondered at as they have no alphabet of their own, the one used being a mixture of Greek and Latin letters. For a long time, even their own language was denied them when under Turkish domination.

The country has led a stormy existence for a great period of time, being invaded by the Celts and the Romans and later was the battleground of the Goths.

However, its future seems to be assured as it is slowly progressing and

"BONES" LITTLE

Will Succeed to Vice-Presidency of Union

In January, 1922, it entered the League of Nations. Thus it is at last emerging from the centuries of ignorance through which it has passed and its future lies in its education, its neutrality, and above all its own initiative.

Stone then outlined a paper on the other little known country, Czechoslovakia.

Unlike Albania, the inhabitants of this country have progressed and are making good. By the peace arrangements after the great war, the state has been most favourably treated. It is an inland country and has the advantage of being situated on a network of railroads which carry the commerce of Europe. Forty-five per cent of the inhabitants are of different races and although a comparatively small country, its population is greater than that of Canada by 5,000,000.

At the outbreak of the war its inhabitants were cruelly treated and the

OLD SPANISH TEXT ON AMERICAN ORES

Translation by Dr. Mathewson Just Published

An interesting book has been translated by an illustrious McGill graduate, president of the American Institute of Mining, Dr. E. P. Mathewson, who received an honorary degree at the Centenary celebration.

The original work was written by a Catholic priest, Alvaro Alonso Barba, in the sixteenth century. Barba was a remarkable character. Although a priest, he appears to have studied deeply all the early methods of mining, to have practised them himself, and to have staked out valuable claims in Bolivia. His original book was condemned by the Inquisition, so that only three copies now survive; all in the British Museum.

The book as translated by Mathewson and Douglass is of interest not merely to miners and metallurgists, but to every reader, as it is full of quaint and terse remarks with an Elizabethan flavour. The book has been presented by Dr. Mathewson to the Redpath Library.

The publishers have issued the following review:

Historians have somewhat left the impression that the early Spanish settlers in this hemisphere were reckless and prodigal exploiters of its mineral wealth, which they believed to be boundless. It was somewhat a surprise, therefore, to catch a seventeenth century Spaniard in the very act, so to speak, of preaching good, sound, "modern" Metallurgy—nay, actually scolding his fellow-workers for the very faults which it was thought were so general as to escape contemporary notice.

Alvaro Alonso Barba, whose book "El Arte de los Metales", is undoubtedly the earliest published work on American Metallurgy, was Curate of the Parish of San Bernardo, at Potosi, Bolivia, and was a metallurgist of note. His book was published in Madrid in 1640. It was promptly translated into French and German, and now, after nearly three hundred years, becomes available in English, an excellent translation having been made by Ross E. Douglass and E. P. Mathewson, both members of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, the latter being the newly elected president of the Institute.

Barba describes a method of amalgamating silver ores, discovered by him in 1590, which, many years later, was rediscovered on the Comstock lode as the "Washoe" process. He explains the construction and operation of various roasters and furnaces, and states that he used an air blast, blown through the charge, when refining copper matte to get the metal; he says that, even before the arrival of the Spaniards, the Indians knew how to make brass by melting calamine ore with metallic copper.

Practically all the Bolivian gold, silver, tin, copper and lead districts known today are mentioned by Barba. He was also aware of the existence of petroleum in the distant Santa Cruz fields. "El Arte de los Metales" consists of five books. Book One summarizes the geological knowledge of German language was compelled to be spoken.

The Czechoslovaks are descendants of the kingdom of Bohemia and it is interesting to note that the crest and motto of the present Prince of Wales was taken from that of John, the blind king of Bohemia.

The country is almost free from debt and it has procured commercial security by numerous treaties.

There are tremendous natural resources here and these are being developed continually and as a result the country is prospering and for the next few years its progress will be interesting to watch.

At the conclusion of Stone's paper Dr. Fryer spoke a few words and said that he thought it very peculiar that such a country as Albania should be within a day's journey of such centres of art and culture and highly developed civilization as London, Paris and Berlin.

Following the serving of light refreshments the gathering adjourned.

PROFESSOR HICKS TO BE ARTS GUEST

Queen's Professor to Be Present at Dinner

On Tuesday, March 20th, the Arts Undergraduate Society will hold their annual dinner in the Dining Room of the Union. This is the biggest event of the season to all Arts students, and the enthusiasm shown by the men who have attended the former dinners may be taken as a sign that the dinner of 1923 will be an improvement over previous years.

The guest of the evening will be Prof. R. K. Hicks, of Queens. Prof. Hicks is a member of the Department of Modern Languages at Queens. He is a graduate of Harvard and of Columbia. Prof. Hicks is well known by both Dean Laing and Dr. Leacock. Both these McGill professors are enthusiastic in their praise of Prof. Hicks, and with two such sponsors the guest of the evening will be sure of a warm welcome.

The executive have gone to great trouble in making the arrangement for this dinner. For several years previous to this, the annual Arts dinner was held in some of the downtown hotels. The cost of such a dinner was too great to allow a full attendance of the Arts men; these dinners, so to encourage the attendance at the dinner of the Arts Undergrad. Society usually paid a certain amount from the common fund. In this way the tickets were brought down to a considerably lower price. This year, however the dinner is being held in the Union. After investigation the executive decided that it was advisable to cut down the price in order to make it possible for every man in the Arts faculty to attend. With this idea in view the dining room of the Union has been engaged.

This does not mean, however, that the quality of the dinner will be poorer than that of former years. It does not take much insight into commercial matters to see that the same dinner may be put on by the caterer in the Union at a great deal more moderate price than by the management of the downtown hotels.

With reference to the toast list the Daily has been assured that a very appropriate card will be arranged. Several well known men will be among the guests and will no doubt know when they have reached the psychological moment when it will be not only advisable, but highly desirable, to say nothing more.

The executive, through the medium of the Daily, wish to urge the Committee in charge of the tickets to make a point of seeing each and every Arts student to-day. As the price of the tickets is only two dollars it is expected that the slogan adopted by the Faculty, "Every Man Out" will be realized.

the author's time, while Books Two to Five deal with metallurgical practice in the marvelously productive region that he knew so well.

The translators have happily preserved much of the quaintness of the old Spanish text. As they are both experienced metallurgists, they have also done full justice to the author's amazing technical knowledge, producing a book which will be of great interest both to metallurgists and to students of the history of technology.

QUIPS

MORE REALITY THAN RHYME

From the nestling haven of love's sweet nest,
I can hear a captivating song:
With entrancing fancy it lulls to rest,
As its notes are gently swept along.
For this nature sings of the dawn of spring.
Of the season when the soul is free,
When my visions blend with the rain-
bows end,
Linking heaven with the deep blue sea:
I'd continue raving about this stuff,
In a sweet and never ending tune;
But I simply can't entertain this bluff,
When exams will be upon us soon.
While the robin shrieks for the next few weeks,
I'll be working till the last exam—
But I hope he'll wait for a friend that's late,
Then I'll holler: "Birdie—here I am!"

HONOR SYSTEM

Convocation hour has been set aside for a student discussion of the "Honor System". According to Percy Spencer, president of the A.S.U.M., no definite action will be taken at this time, but everyone will be given a chance to express their views on the possibility of such a system. With this in mind, interviews were obtained with six of the most influential men around college. Each of these men, including the officer commanding the O.T.C., strongly endorses the "Honor System".—Montana Kaimin.

SUPERSTITION STARTED WITH THE ANCIENTS

Klineberg Gives Illustrations of Doubtful Beliefs

TABOOS AND TOTEMS

Modern Forms a Survival from Primitive Times

"Certain men have conducted a statistical research within the very portals of rationalism, and have discovered that an astonishingly large number of university men and women are influenced every day of their lives by superstitious beliefs." Basing his remarks on the verity of this statement, Otto Klineberg, M.A., in reading a paper on "Superstition" before the Philosophical Society at the Hall last evening, went on to trace the different forms of superstition, and their cause and effect.

Dresslar defines superstition as "a willingness and a phyletic, instinctive desire to believe in certain casual relations, which have not and cannot be proved to exist through a course of reasoning, through revelation or through direct observation." This definition Klineberg used as an illustration of an attempt to explain superstition, but which he thinks "would make a superstition of every religion with the possible exception of one's own."

A few cases of current superstition were cited, such as the belief that walking under a ladder, seating thirteen people at a table, meeting a black cat at night, are attended by ill-luck in some form. These beliefs, the speaker pointed out, "have their roots far back in the infancy of civilization; they are relics of customs which were bound up with the very life of primitive peoples, and represent perhaps all that is left of the religion, culture, and other social institutions which were then all-important and all-persuasive." The influence of ancient superstitions on the intellectual machinery of the modern human being transmitted by heredity from primitive peoples, was given as a reason for the current beliefs in this line.

In savage communities dangers of every sort are ever present; thunder and lightning, the poison of the snake, the spear of the enemy. The savage never knows what the morrow will bring forth. "His principal emotion is fear; his great desire is for self-preservation." Anything that will help the savage to ally his fears or give him more control over the forces that govern him, are eagerly resorted to. "When he killed his enemy, the sun was low, his bowstring was dry, and he had a bamboo stick in his girdle. The next time he wants to kill an enemy he will wait until the sun is low, his bowstring is dry, and he will carry a bamboo stick in his girdle. A cause, to him, is simply that which happened at the same time as the effect."

In this manner all the ancient superstitions arose, and Klineberg termed them "forerunners of our modern superstitions having their origin in the tendency to be impressed by coincidence, and the associated psychological habit of being impressed by similarities."

Mention was made of a supernatural power, termed by Marrett and others as Mana, having the capacity of working good or evil. It is a term covering "all manifestations of mysterious or supernatural power in magic and religion alike." Mana developed into the institution of "taboo" whereby all manner of restrictions were placed on conduct. To break a taboo was to call the wrath of Mana upon one's self. Modern forms of taboo cited were, opening an umbrella in a house, walking under a ladder, and turning back from an expedition after having started it. If these things are done they are supposed to be attended by what is commonly termed "bad luck".

As an explanation of the probable assumption that a connection exists between the superstitious beliefs of primitive peoples and those of the present, Klineberg offered the following—"when we think of the tremendous force of social heredity over the life and thought of the individual, we need wonder no longer how these practices could have been transmitted from generation to generation so as to be kept alive up to this day. The forces of parental guidance and imitation, of custom and convention, of teaching and precept from early youth, of myths and traditions, would so colour the whole of the individual's attitude towards these things that independent judgment concerning their truth becomes well nigh impossible."

At the end of the address many questions were asked the speaker, who in each case succeeded in making himself very clear.

It hot for him!"

ORCHESTRA MAKING SPLENDID PROGRESS

The work of the Orchestra for Theatre Night is progressing most favourably. The musicians are getting used to playing together, and are rapidly acquiring the necessary confidence.

Mr. Harold Eustace Key is in charge of the music, and has composed a piece specially for the occasion. It is called the "Alma Mater March," and should be quite a hit. A lot of work was done on it at last night's rehearsal, and another practice will be sufficient to put on the finishing touches.

The Orchestra will also play the "Nocturne" from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn. The players have this well in hand.

Quite a bit of time was spent last night on the pieces for the various skits. While these numbers are not difficult, quite a degree of perfection is required in the playing of them, as they are to be used as accompaniments to singing and dancing; and, specially in the dancing, the rhythm must be exact. However, the members of the orchestra have them well under control, and will be prepared for the general rehearsal with the skits on Saturday.

Dinty—Gee, I heard a good story the other day:

Castleman—Oh, do tell it, Dinty.

Dinty—I'd like to tell it very much, but you see it's about crude oil and telling him what a reputation he had for being a devil among the women.

Mildred King (animatedly)—And did not refined. I'd pull that one about the mouse trap but it's too snappy.

at a dance for many seasons and the efforts of the committee would seem to make it definite that it will also be the best.

The members of the Students' Council are the hosts for the evening, and prominent among the guests will be representatives from the University of Toronto, Queen's University, and the Université de Montréal. Patrons for the dance include the Principal and Lady Currie, the Deans of the Faculties and their wives, and Miss Hurlbatt, of the Royal Victoria College. The committee expressed its regret yesterday at the fact that Miss Hurlbatt would not be able to be present owing to the fact that she was suffering from a severe cold. All of the other invited guests will be present, however.

The task of decorating the Union has progressed very well, and it is expected that it will be completed this evening. The large ball-room in the top of the building has been decorated and the lower hall are now undergoing their part of the renovation for the occasion. The colour scheme will be the conventional one of red and white, but has been mingled in such a way to produce some very pretty effects.

Prof. Baudin—Bill, how can you stand lying in bed so late?

Bill Bell—I can't stand lying in bed. I'm no contortionist.

The readings will be followed by discussion, in which all members interested are expected to participate.

Dr. Leacock will be present and as he was unable to attend the last meet-
